

Employee Onboarding Guide

Company: Northstar Technologies (fictional)

1. Before Your First Day

New employees should complete the online employee profile before their start date.

HR will send the employee handbook, required forms, and instructions for setting up payroll.

Managers should confirm the employee's first-day schedule and introduce the employee to the team.

2. Your First Day

New employees attend an orientation session with HR.

IT provides the employee with a company laptop and instructions for signing in to company systems.

Employees meet their manager and review their role, responsibilities, and first-week goals.

3. Your First Week

Employees should complete required security and workplace training during their first week.

Employees should confirm that email, chat, the HR portal, and required business applications are working.

Managers schedule a one-on-one meeting to answer questions and review initial priorities.

4. First 30 Days

Employees complete any remaining mandatory training.

Managers provide feedback on progress and discuss goals for the next 60 days.

Employees may contact HR for questions about benefits, payroll, leave, or company policies.

Document purpose: This fictional policy is intentionally simple and structured for testing an employee-onboarding RAG application.
